PARTY KEY NOTE HEARD AT SANTA FE

REPUBLICAN LEADER OUTLINES PARTY POLICIES IN NEW MEXICO CON-VENTION.

By the Associated Press

SANTA FE, N. M., March 26.—The republican party of New Mexico, through a keynote address delivered today by George W. Prichard of Santa Fe, temporary chairman, to the state republican convention meeting here to name delegates at large to the national convention, turned its heavy artillery on the record of the democratic party. Mr. Prichard criticized the democratic record at home and abroad and urged the delegates to work to elect a republican president of the United States so that "order will be brought out of chaos." He promised that a republican president and a republican congress "will restore confidence; taxes will be reduced; the high cost of living will be cut down; normal conditions will be resumed and the country will become prosperous."

Paying tribute to Gen. Leonard Wood, Mr. Prichard said the general "is worthy of wearing the mantle of Lincoln and of that long line of republican presidents who have contributed so much to, and reflected so much credit, honor and glory on our country."

The chairman described the treaty of peace with Germany as "the only treaty or covenant so far as this government is concerned, that was ever planned and brought forth in a spirit of resentment, if not malice." He declared "from the date of President Wilson's second fruitless trip to Paris, his relation to that Un-American document has been peevish, spiteful and vindictive."

Article X was called "a war measure pure and simple, a pledge to furnish military forces to preserve the territorial and political independence of any member of the league."

Women voters were urged to support the republican party. "They should not be afraid of politics," said Mr. Prichard. "Governments must not exist without politics."

STEERS FATTENED ON SILAGE

Interesting Feeding Test With Shelled Corn Conducted at Missouri Station.

At the Missouri experiment station one lot of steers was fed 15 pounds of shelled corn per head per day along with 2.5 pounds of linseed oil cake, 2.5 pounds of clover hay, and 25 pounds of corn silage. Another lot received no shelled corn but a little more of the oil cake and clover and 40 pounds of silage per head per day. The results were that the lot that received shelled corn and half a feed of silage charged $15.95 for 100 pounds gain, while the other lot charged only $10.69. The cost of feed per steer on shelled corn was $50.23, while with the other lot it was $21.17.

WATER SUPPLY FOR CALVES

Common Idea That Young Animals Will Drink Too Much Is Error—They Also Like Salt.

Let the calves have free access to fresh and clean water, and also to salt. The common idea that calves will drink too much water is a mistake. During the first four months little calves should not eat too much grain.

ROFF, March 26.—E. O. Davis, for the past two years superintendent of the Roff public schools, has resigned. His resignation is to take effect on May 28th. Mr. Davis for the past four years has been connected with three schools of Pontotoc county, two years as superintendent of Stonewall public schools, two years at Roff and two summers as history teacher in the East Central State Normal. Mr. Davis has for the past two years served as president of the Pontotoc County Teachers' association. He is resigning in order that he may enter Oklahoma University in June and work out his master's degree.

WOMEN WITH CHILDREN SHOULD NOT HOLD POLITICAL OFFICES SAYS MISS TAFT

CLEVELAND, Ohio, March 25.—(Special).—"I believe that women should be on every political convention." That is Miss Helen Taft's view of the important part women should play in politics. "But I do not believe," she adds, "that a married woman with children should hold any office. I cannot guess whether any woman ever will become president, but women are capable of filling every office that men can."

Miss Taft discussed woman's progress in politics while speaking here to aid the campaign to raise an endowment fund of $2,000,000 for Bryn Mawr college, of which Miss Taft is acting president. She is, incidentally, the youngest college president in the United States.

Discussing the low salaries of educators in general, she said: "Unless money can be raised at once for increasing the salaries of faculties in women's colleges, the number of professors will be reduced one-half by the end of the year."

NAVAL SECRETARY OPPOSED BIG NAVY

WANTED FEWER MEN IN SERVICE THAN WAR EXPERTS HAD ASKED FOR, NOW DISCLOSED

WASHINGTON, Mar. 26.—Charges that the Navy Department took steps to prevent reports reaching the public regarding shortage of personnel in the Navy before the United States entered the war, were made before the Senate Naval Committee today by Captain Joseph J. Causig, who was on duty at the Navy Department prior to the war, and later served on destroyers overseas. He said that Secretary Daniels in his annual report in 1914 stated that the numerical strength of the Navy was inadequate, and in 1915 he said that only an additional ten thousand men were needed, while the Navy general board in its 1914 report had stated that 19,000 men were necessary. The witness told the committee that the department's policy with regard to personnel was one of unpreparedness, even when war with Germany apparently was inevitable.

DOUBLE MURDER BAFFLING POLICE

WHO MURDERED WEALTHY
YOUNG BROOKLYN PHYSI-CIAN IS PUZZLE TO OFFICERS

By the Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 26.—Detectives conducted a widespread search for a "third man" today in the belief that his capture would clear up the mystery in the double murder of Dr. Vincent J. Campisi, a wealthy young Brooklyn physician and an unidentified "patient" whose bodies were found in a disorderly lodging-house room in Brooklyn last night.

Dr. Campisi was summoned to visit the patient last night by a middle aged man who accompanied him to the scene of the murder. An hour later Dr. Campisi's body, terribly slashed, was found on the floor of the "patient's" room, and the latter was dead in his bed with the imprint of fingers on his throat. The "third man" had disappeared.

Early police theory that Dr. Campisi had been lured to the lodging house for the purpose of robbery and that he had slain one of his assailants before he himself succumbed, appears to have been broken down by the fact that a large sum of money, together with valuable were found in the Doctor's pockets.

Health Workers Perfect County Organization

In view of the fact that the school children of Pontotoc County sold as many Red Cross seal stamps as any other county in the state the State office in Oklahoma City believes the county should have a good, wide awake county organization to use, spend and direct the money and efforts of the work locally. With this idea in view, Miss Iva E. Cross, Field Secretary, was in Ada yesterday for the purpose of organizing a Committee to superintend the public health work in this county.

The meeting was held in the parlors of the Harris Hotel and a complete organization was perfected. Mrs. Marvin Brown, from the Publicity Bureau, was made permanent chairman and Chas. L. Orr, representative from the American Legion, will act as Secretary.

The committee appointed to direct the work is composed of a special representative from the various organizations in the county that are believed to have the best interest of the county at heart, and an effort will be made to impress everyone in the county that his or her good health depends almost entirely upon the good health of everyone else, and that sanitation is the keynote.

Following is the committee for the county: County at Large, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Hill. Schools, Supt. Hickman. State Normal, Dr. Gordon. County Health, Dr. Webster. Ministerial Alliance, Rev. C. V. Dunn.

Lion's Club, Robert Wimbish, Chamber of Commerce, John A. Smith. Red Cross, M. F. Manville. Welfare work, Mrs. Orville Sneed. Chamber of Commerce Auxiliary, Mrs. Jno. P. McKinley. Cemetery Association, Mrs. Dr. Ross.

Civic Improvement, Mayor Kitchen. Business Men, R. W. Simpson. American Legion, Chas. L. Orr. Secretary-Treasurer, Publicity Bureau, Mrs. Marvin Chairman.

The out of town representatives were: Stonewall, Mrs. Zeb K. McKoy. Francis, Mrs. Goettry. Roff, Mrs. Clay Jones. Allen, Mrs. John Lee. Vanoss, R. W. Small. The County Organization will meet once each month at the County Seat.

"FIRST LADY OF THE LAND" AS FRIENDS KNOW HER TODAY

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson

JUDGE HEARING CONTEMPT PLEA

FORMER GOVERNOR SITS IN JUDGMENT IN RED RIVER
OIL LEASE CONTRO-VERSY

By the Associated Press

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 26.—Re-opening of the old question of jurisdiction of federal district court, in the matter of the Red river boundary dispute between Texas and Oklahoma, marked the morning session of the hearing before Federal Judge Robert L. Williams, of the Judsonia Developing association petition to have Texas claimants to Red river bed oil leases adjudged in contempt of court because of their refusal to vacate the disputed territory in accordance with the order recently issued by Federal Judge Frank A. Youmans at Enid.

Thos. W. Gregory, assistant attorney general of Texas, spent the morning in presenting his assertion that the United States supreme court only had jurisdiction in the matter. Judge Williams repeatedly interrupted Gregory's remarks with opinions and told the latter he was determined to follow the opinion of the supreme court in 1896, which designated the south bank of the stream as the boundary between the two states.

Upon the question of issuing writs of attachment against Texas claimants who had refused to vacate the disputed land, there was little or no debate at this morning's session of court, assistant attorney general Gregory taking up the time until the recess at noon.

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 26.—Efforts of attorneys for Texas claimants to obtain a re-hearing of the case decided by Judge Youmans at Enid, and arguments on the motion of attorneys for the Judsonia Developing Association for a contempt citation for the Texans, featured the opening fight for possession of oil leases in the Red River bed, which began here today, before Federal Judge Robert L. Williams.

The fight will center on the petition of the Judsonia Association for an order adjudging the Texas claimants, who are in possession of 160 lease claimed by the Association, in contempt of court. The attempt to bar Thos. W. Gregory, former United States Attorney General of Texas, and other State Attorneys, from the case, is based upon the claim that the questions involved concern individual rights only. Unless Judge Williams grants the motion for a rehearing the entire case, the only result of today's hearing will be a decision on the contempt charges preferred by the Judsonia Association.

After the Texas claimants are adjudged in contempt of court, order for the arrest of the claimants will be given to the United States Marshall.

DEVIL LEADING IN FIGHT WITH CHURCH

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Mar. 26. (Special).—The alarming decrease in the number of candidates for the ministry that has occurred in the last two years must be met by vigorous action on the part of the Protestant churches of North America, according to Dr. Henry H. Sweets, executive secretary of the Southern Presbyterian committee on Christian education and ministerial relief.

In common with other churches of the United States, the Southern Presbyterian church is feeling the great need of recruits for the ministry. In 1919, eleven presbyteries reported to the General Assembly that they had no candidates on their rolls. They had 218 churches, 136 ministers, 708 elders, 727 deacons and 18,826 communicants. Fourteen thousand, four hundred and four members were enrolled in their Sunday schools; yet the call for the ministry had not reached the ears of a single man or woman.

Dr. Sweets declared that a church of 270 members, which recently came to his attention, has never sent out a minister or missionary in its history, except the daughter of one of its pastors, who had decided to go before she moved her membership to that church. The church was organized 80 years ago.

"We now have one candidate for the ministry to every 981 members of the church, and one candidate to each 100,033 of the population of the southern states," said Dr. Sweets. "In 1917 the various presbyteries reported a total of 482 candidates, while in 1919 only 371 were reported. This is a decrease of 111 candidates in the face of a large increase in church membership." As a part of the Presbyterian Program for Christian life work are sought, February 29th was the day set to push this movement and highly encouraging results were reported from all over the South. It is the intention of the church to enroll these 2000 before March 31, 1921. The salaries of pastors generally are being raised as a consequence of the program.

SACRED CATTLE GROWN IN TEXAS

BRABRA COWS FROM INDIA ATTRACT MUCH ATTENTION AT FT. WORTH FAT STOCK SHOW

By the Associated Press

FORT WORTH, Tex., March 26.—The great sacred cattle of India have gone to home pastures with blue ribbons for the first time from the Fort Worth Fat Stock show, setting a new era in the industry in the Southwest.

The Brahmas came from the great Pierce ranches in Wharton County and surpassed in public interest at the exhibit this year the Herefords, the Poll Angus, Jerseys and other breeds. Fifteen of the sacred cattle were brought to the show.

What attracted the most interest about the "sacred cattle" is the fact that they are tick-proof and drought-raising. Originally pure-breeds, these giant, gaunt cattle have been crossed with Texas stock until they have donned some of the physical characteristics of their kind. But they still retain the hump and their natural wildness has been intensified by the admixture with the Texas stock.

They are tall and almost gaunt and can run like a deer, but their meat is tender and strengthening. Breeding of these sacred cattle has never progressed into an industry in Texas, yet this year's exhibit has strengthened interest in the crossing of the breeds, especially in West Texas because of the drought-resisting qualities.

In periods of drought, the ordinary steer cannot wander far from a water hole in search of grass, with the result that all of the vegetation around the particular water hole is soon eaten up and the cattle begin to suffer. But the Brahmas will go far afield in quest of food, not depending upon the proximity of water.

While most of Texas is rapidly "cleaning up" so far as the tick is concerned, yet the fact that the tick will not molest the sacred cattle also has drawn attention to them.

In the beginning of the crossed breed, South Texas cattlemen imported a few of the Brahmas from India and then crossed them with the local cattle. Like in the Panhandle of Texas, Charles Goodnight has successfully crossed the buffalo with the cattle.

Larry Doyle.

BY NORMAN E. BROWN

Larry Doyle, veteran infielder, announces that he found, last winter, the fountain of youth for which Ponce de Leon and about ninety million other birds sought in vain. Said spring was in Cuba, he avers, and he states that, as a result of a winter on the sunny island he is set to play second base for the Giants as he played at his best, before age began to slow him up a bit.

Before Doyle reported to the Giants this spring McGraw had about made up his mind that he would have to develop a youngster for the second sack, but now he means to start Doyle at the position and give him a chance to demonstrate the hope that he is "ten years younger."

Doyle was born in Caseyville, Ill., which may have been named after the guy that struck out. Larry is 34 now and has been in baseball since 1905, when he started out with Mattoon in the Eastern Illinois league. He joined Springfield in the Three Eyes league in 1907 and was sold in June, that year to the Giants for the reported price of $4,500. He became the Giants' regular second sacker the next season and starred through the following campaigns until traded to Chicago on August 28, 1916, with Hunter and Jacobson for Zimmerman. His usefulness with the Cubs was short-lived as he sustained a broken leg in a game September 9. He was with the Cubs the following season, but on January 4, 1918, was traded with Wilson and $15,000 cash for pitcher Lefty Tyler of the Braves. Four days later Larry was told to pack up again and was traded to the Giants with Jess Barnes for Buck Herzog.

Doyle always has been there with the stick. He broke into the 300 class in five campaigns while with the Giants the first time. His stickwork, his spectacular and steady fielding and his baseball brains helped McGraw to land the National league flag three years in a row.

"Aren't we good children?" asked the three little lynx kittens of their mother, Mrs. Canada Lynx.

"Yes, you're good children," said their mother, "and one of the reasons is that you do not leave your mother too soon. You stay with your mother a long, long time, and she teaches you and tells you what a nice young lynx should know."

"How long does a lynx child usually stay with its mother?" asked one of her children. "We've been with you a pretty good long time and yet we don't feel as yet like seeking our own fortunes."

"Ah, my children, and my friends' children stay with their mothers until they're a year old. That is, until the children are a year old."

"By that time you have learned a great deal. Of course there are folks who keep their children with them for much longer than that. But that isn't necessary. I do not approve of creatures letting their children go forth before they are a year old or almost of that age. But neither do I approve of keeping children home until they're quite, quite ancient, really, really old, say fourteen years or eighteen years, or something horrible like that."

"But when you're a year old, my precious kittens, you shall go forth and seek your fortunes. You may not do very well because you aren't so awfully bright. That is, you are bright enough, but you're not one of the most intelligent animals that ever lived. Your parents aren't, and your grandparents were not, so you don't come by it naturally."

"I don't believe you will try to become so very wise, either; lynx children never have."

"Mother," said one of her children, "you called us your kittens, but aren't we little lynx children?"

"I called you both, didn't I?" asked their mother. "I called you my lynx children and my kittens."

"But which are we?" they asked. "Both," answered their mother.

"How can we be?" they asked. "It's quite possible," said their mother, "just as a little girl can be both a child and a little girl, so can you be a kitten and a lynx."

"Lynx is the family name, of course, but we're of the family of cats, and we're quite near relatives."

"We have four long legs and little bodies and tiny tails and tufted ears, though, come to think of it, our bodies aren't so little. No, not so little."

"And as I am a big cat, you see, so you are my little kittens."

"Ah, what lovely little kittens you were with your spots and bands looking like your ancestors, the ocelots and tiger cats. You were so beautifully marked, my loves. And you will have a beautiful fur coat like your mother and your feet will be furred so you will not feel the cold when you go about where there is snow. It will also help you in walking to have your fur gaiters on!

"Before you leave me, dears, you must remember to tell anyone who says such a thing that we do not attack people. We go after hares more than anything else, and we like small foxes and mice and squirrels and birds, but not people."

"No, they needn't flatter themselves. We don't want to eat them, and we won't, so there! That is most important for you to know."

"But now, as you're not quite old enough, my kittens, you will stay with your mother and take still another hunting trip with her, for we'll get plenty of good things to eat!"

And off they started, a very beautiful but not particularly brave or wonderful family.

"Whatever else folks say of me," said Mrs. Canada Lynx, "at least I'm a good mother."

"You are," said her children, "but you haven't much trouble with us, we're good children and we take right after you and your ways!"

"That's why I keep you with me as long as I do," said Mrs. Canada Lynx, "to make sure that you keep up the family name and ways and history and habits of the Canada Lynx family."

"But now let's leap and bound, for we must be off a-bunting."

Natural Fears.

"Why are you crying, my little dear? Don't you want to go sailing on this nice boat?"

"No, I don't. The man said there would be a spanking breeze."

YEARS OF FIGHTING AND WANDERING END;
CZECHO-SLOVAK TROOPS RETURN HOME

The famous Czechoslovak army, under the command of Colonel Kutlvasr, returned recently to Prague, after years of warfare and wandering, and was given an enthusiastic welcome by the populace. These troops, once the prisoners of the czar, fought the Bolsheviks on regaining their freedom, and for a long time preserved Siberia from the followers of Lenin and Trotsky.

AVERAGE INCREASED BY LABOR SHORTAGE

By the Associated Press
MANHATTAN, Kas., March 26.—Scarcity of farm labor in Kansas and inexperience of much of the labor available is responsible for the decrease this year in wheat acreage, according to the Kansas State Agricultural College authorities.

In 1914 they point out, there were 1.5 men per farm in Kansas. In 1920, only 1.3 men. The acreage being withdrawn from wheat is being largely planted in corn.

Sorghum cane, another standby of the Kansas farmer, is returning to its own, the authorities say.

Much damage has resulted to wheat from the recent high winds, farmers and investigators insist, in reports received at the college. In this connection, an experiment being made at the Hays experiment station, it is believed, will prove valuable. Wheat land has been plowed with furrows running at right angles to the direction of the prevailing winds. C. R. Weeks, director of the station, declares the value of this experiment already has been proved.

HOW PRODUCTION IS CRIPPLED

We have never had the pleasure of paying an excess profits tax and for a long time we didn't have any deep interest in the matter. We thought that it was a fine way of making the wealthy pay the bulk of governmental expenses, and so long as we didn't have to dig up, we refused to grow excited over what it does or does not. But we have about reached the conclusion that old man people himself is paying this excess tax and in some cases paying it twice.

The tax payer has learned that the best way to avoid paying the excess is not to have any excess. He dodges the tax gatherer by curtailing production. It works out this way. If a farmer had to pay a heavy tax on his first ten bales of cotton, and donate all of his second ten bales, it is easy to guess that there wouldn't be any second ten bales. He would save what he could out of his first ten and not produce any bales exceeding that number.

The lumber man is made out of the same material from which the Lord fashioned the farmer. He cuts enough timber to keep his business alive, but when he reaches the dead line of excess profits, he quits cutting. Thus production is limited and prices are kept abnormally high. Thus old man people pays two prices for half the lumber he needs. The same game is played by everyone engaged in large production. He produces up to a certain point and stops. That point is the line of excess profits. What's the use, he says, of working up my raw material when the government is confiscating every penny I make above a certain amount.

Of course such a manufacturer is selfish, in which respect he is like you and me. It would be a glorious thing for every large producer to say that the expenses of the war must be paid and that he will go the limit to help pay those expenses. But human nature is human nature and it is hard to reach by statutory law. We are all alike in this respect, that when the government takes everything we earn above a certain figure, we are not going to overwork ourselves to go beyond that figure.

No use for the government to demand more products when it is confiscating the "more" part of the products. No use for the government to try to reduce this high cost of living so long as the government makes it impossible for the high cost of living to come lower. That's where the excess profits gets to old man people. That is where the small producer and the non producer gets on the front row. We are learning something about this excess profits tax and it's a bear.

The story coming out of Washington early in the week that President Wilson contemplates asking for a third term is an interesting space filler, but serves no other purpose of any use whatsoever. The American people well remember the slogan of 1912: "Washington wouldn't, Grant couldn't, Roosevelt shan't." If Wilson really wants to rank with the very few who thought themselves bigger than the unwritten law of America, he has that privilege. But he will not get started in a race for a third term. He may have sufficient Federal appointees in the national convention to seize the nomination, but even if he should be nominated, he would be beaten most disastrously at the polls. The race run by Taft when he carried Vermont and Utah would be a Garrison finish compared to the third term race of Woodrow Wilson in 1920.

Press dispatches bring the unpleasant information that the I. W. W. have taken advantage of the failure of congress to enact any legislation for the relief of the soldiers and are making a special appeal to former service men to join the Red forces. Furthermore the dispatches say that many service men, particularly in Utah, resenting the failure of congress to take affirmative action, have been showing a disposition to align themselves with the Reds. This is most unpleasant information. It affords a small measure of the delinquency of the present congress. The record justifies one in believing that most congressmen are perfectly willing for the country to go to hell, if only some political party is benefitted.

We wish to correct a statement published recently in the Evening News, in which we declared that the present congress has done nothing but sign the payroll. That was an error. The Congressional Record shows that congress recently extended for two years the term of the National Screw Thread Commission. We regret our mistake exceedingly.

Recent reports from Deutschland indicate that Villa has at last reached Potsdam.

Dan McGann and Uncle Sam

Said Dan McGann to a foreign man who worked at self-same bench, "Let me tell you this," and for emphasis, he flourished a monkey wrench, "Don't talk to me of this bourgeoisie, don't open your mouth to speak. Of your socialists or your anarchists, don't mention the bolsheevik, For I've had enough of this foreign stuff, I'm sick as a man can be. Of the speech of hate, and I'm tellin' you straight that this is the land for me!"

"If you want to brag, just take that flag, an' boast of its field of blue, An' praise the dead an' the blood they shed for the peace of the likes o' you. I'll hear no more," and he waved once more, his wrench in a forceful way. "O' the cunning creed of some Russian breed. I stand for the U. S. A. I'm done with your fads, and your wild-eyed lads, don't flourish your flag o' red. Where I can see, or at night ther'll be tall candles around your bed."

"So tip your hat to a flag like that! Thank God for its stripes an' stars! Thank God you're here where the roads are clear, away from your kings and czars. I can't just say what I feel today, for I'm not a talkin' man. But first an' last, I am standin' fast for all that's American. So don't you speak of the bolsheevik, it's sick of that stuff I am, One God, one flag is the creed I brag! I'm boostin' for Uncle Sam."

FORMER CZAR'S KIN RAGGED AND HUNGRY

Grand Duchess Olga

Grand Duchess Olga, sister of the late Czar Nicholas of Russia, has been found by American Red Cross workers living in a box car near Norvorsk in south Russia. She was discovered, ragged and hungry, toiling among fellow-refugees from the territory recently conquered by the Bolsheviks.

POSSE SEARCH FOR BABY'S MURDERERS

By the Associated Press

ADENA, Ohio, March 26.—The search for the murders of 7-year-old Frances South, whose body was found in a wood near here last night, was continued today by the armed posse of miners which formed shortly after the crime was discovered.

Authorities here said today they believed the posse or other citizens of Adena would make an effort to reach Sherrodsville, Carroll county where four negroes are being held as suspects in connection with the killing. Deputy sheriffs at Sherrodsville however, are making preparations today to move the prisoners to Carrollton.

At an early hour this morning the police of Ramsey, near here, arrived with a foreigner who is being held as a suspect in the case.

TOLD GOOD JOKE ON HIMSELF

Lincoln Appreciated Humor in Remark Made by Exceedingly Frank, Outspoken Lady.

When Mr. Lincoln was presented by the toastmaster of a banquet of Illinois editors in 1858, he began with an apology for his presence, speaking of himself as an interloper, and then he said he was reminded of an incident. He did not say that he was giving a personal experience of his own, but the editors surmised as much and were greatly amused.

Mr. Lincoln said that the man of whom he was speaking possessed features which the ladies could not call handsome. This man, while riding through the woods, met a lady on horseback. He turned out of the path and waited for her to pass. She stopped and looked at the man a few moments. Then she said:

"Well for land sake, you are the homeliest man I ever saw."
"Yes, madame," the man replied; "but I can't help it."
"No, I suppose not," the lady said; "but you might stay at home."

Lincoln's Task.
Mr. Lincoln's perilous task has been to carry a rather shaky craft through the rapids, making fast the unruly logs as he could snatch opportunity, and the country is to be congratulated that he did not think it his duty to run straight at all hazards, but cautiously to assure himself with his setting pole where the main current was, and keep steadily to that. He is still in wild water, but we have faith that his skill and sureness of she will bring him right at last.—Lowell (1864).

herdess," Miss Lockhart's latest novel.

Born and raised in Wyoming, Caroline Lockhart is thoroughly capable of injecting real western atmosphere and spirit into her outdoor stories. She is one of the comparatively few writers who are permanent residents of the section of the country about which they write. Miss Lockhart lives in Cody, Wyoming, and draws many of her book characters from the people living in and about the town.

"One of the chief industries of the sheep country of Wyoming is known as 'dudding' or 'dudeing,'" says Caroline Lockhart. "A rancher figures that if he can get a party of easterners or 'dudes' to board during the tourist period he is hitting the high spots of prosperity. The prospects of a good season of 'dude wrangling' are discussed by the settlers in the same serious vein in which they talk about the wool or alfalfa crops."

In "The Fighting Shepherdess," Miss Lockhart included a number of humorous episodes treating on the business of entertaining easterners with rough surrounding and hard work.

This snapshot of the famous author and actress was taken while the latter was making her new picture, "The Yellow Typhoon," hence the blond wig which almost disguises her beyond recognition.

Just Gossip

Clarine Seymour will be seen as a South Sea Islander, in D. W. Griffith's next picture, "The Idol Dancer." She will enact the title role.

RATHER DARING IS THIS DANCE FROCK

By Eloise.

It has often been said that the stage sets the fashion, but that is not altogether true. The stage may introduce any fashion at all, no matter how fantastic or novel, but it really could not hope to make the daring and exotic styles worn behind the footlights the common and every day garb of the modest stay-at-homes. Whether women adopt stage fashions or not they are always interested in looking at them and often there is some little feature about them which can readily be embodied in the home frock or formal gown which adds to its charm and distinction.

This dance frock for the debutante is rather daring, but it is also beautiful. It was designed by pretty little Elizabeth Hines, who has made such a hit in Henry W. Savage's latest musical play, "See Saw." It is designed for the tall, slender girl and is simplicity itself. Cherry colored brocade striped with silver cut in one piece with draping to show the stripes in various directions is all there is to the frock. The stripes on the bodice are emphasized by brilliant which outline them. The drape of the skirt is held at the waistline by a single square buckle of rhinestones. Fresh colored tulle forms a yoke which takes the place of the usual shoulder straps and produces a very startling effect. This feature of the frock is becoming very popular, particularly with women who have not very beautiful shoulders, and often afternoon frocks are made with dark tulle yokes and long tight sleeves of the same material. Then the effect is attractive, for the flesh showing through the dark color is striking.

LOS ANGELES WILL PLAN IMPROVEMENT

By the Associated Press
LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 26.—District meetings have been called in various parts of the southwestern states in preparation for the annual convention of the League of the Southwest in this city April 1, 2 and 3, at which the improvement of the Colorado river basin will be considered. Local angles, President von Kleinsmud of the league said, would be worked out at the district meetings, and delegates instructed accordingly.

The list of convention speakers announced by the league included Senator William F. Borah of Idaho; William Jennings Bryan; Heber J. Grant of Salt Lake City, head of the Mormon church; Elwood Mead, chairman of the California Land Settlement board; Franklin K. Lane, former secretary of the interior, and his successor, John Barton Payne; E. C. Times Have Changed.

The history of "The War With Spain," by Henry Cabot Lodge, published in 1899, has on pages 230 and 231 the following passages:

"Much dispute and opposition have arisen among people successful in war in times past, and will rise again, over treaties of peace."

"The treaty of the United States with Spain, signed in Paris on December 10, 1898, has the unique distinction of having excited opposition and attack among the victors because it secured too much and was too triumphant."

"The American people made two points clear to them. One was that a peace treaty ought to be ratified."

"The constitutional provision which requires a vote of two-thirds of the senate to ratify a treaty simplifies the work of opposition to ratification. It seemed incredible at first that a treaty of peace could possibly be defeated."

"The friends of ratification took the very simple ground that the treaty committed the United States to no policy, but left them free to do exactly as seemed best with all the islands, that the American people could be safely entrusted with this grave responsibility, and that patriotism and common sense alike demanded the end of war and the re-establishment of peace, which could only be effected by the adoption of the treaty."

SWAMP CHILL & FEVER TONIC

GIRLISH FROCK OF WHITE SILK CREPE

By Eloise.

When the very young miss goes shopping for her spring wardrobe she will surely want a dainty little frock for parties and dances and other afternoon affairs. Nothing is so practical and so youthful as a white frock. Some young girls wear nothing but white all during the summer season. This, however, usually means much laundering or dry cleaning and those who spend their summers away from home find that one or two white frocks are about all they can manage without the aid of the home laundress. This simple little model may be worn upon many different occasions and may even serve as a graduation frock. Pleats which seem to predominate in the modes for early spring are featured in this frock. White crepe de chine is the material used and both the skirt and blouse are box pleated. The costume features a tunic blouse which serves as a flounce on the skirt. The tunic or peplum is daintily embroidered in little flower designs which adds a note of charm to the whole. Short sleeves, a round neck and a crushed girde of the same material are other notable features.

HOGS IN TRANSIT MULTIPLY RAPIDLY

By the Associated Press
CRESTON, Iowa, March 26.—Thomas L. Maxwell, a lawyer here, answered his telephone recently to be informed by the express agent, "your shipment of six pigs is here." Maxwell insisted he had not any such shipment coming to him, but finally called at the express depot. He found two Poland-China sows he had bought in Indiana, and in another crate six little spotted pigs. Explanation showed one of the sows had given birth to the pigs on the way to Creston, and an obliging expressman had crated them separately and consigned them to the same person the sow was shipped to.

Man Fined For Violating City Quarantine

Charged with violating the municipal quarantine regulations Jess Owens was arraigned in the city police court yesterday. It seems that Owens' family are staying in a house where small pox had developed and which had been put under a quarantine by the city health officer. It is said that Owens had been going in and out of this house at will, and it was for this offense that he was arrested. At the hearing yesterday he was found guilty and assessed $24.75 by Mayor Kitchens. It is said that there has been some carelessness displayed in observing quarantine regulations in the city, due no doubt to the fact that many people do not know that a severe penalty attaches to such violation.

MAKING THE MOST OF THE TALES FROM THE BIG LEAGUE CAMPS

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 23.—(Special)—Regulars on the Brooklyn club and thirty-third degree fans who have been watching the team train are still talking about the clever headwork of Bernie Pretty, rookie catcher from the Florida State league. Pretty has shown repeatedly that he is one of the brainiest finds of years. One instance in particular proves that.

Bernie was assigned to catch Sherrod Smith in a practice game. Jimmy Johnston was batting. The pitching was "easy" so Bernie didn't bother about changing an infielder's glove he had been wearing for a catcher's mitt. But Johnston slammed one of the offerings with all his might. He hit under the ball a bit and it went straight up until it went out of sight.

Pretty realized that it would be impossible to handle the ball with his fielder's glove, so, throwing off his mask, he dashed over to the hotel and got his catcher's glove. When he returned the ball had not come down. Then, to save his neck from becoming strained while waiting for the ball to come into view again, Pretty grabbed off his chest protector, laid it on the ground and lay down upon it with his eyes toward the sky. Five minutes later when the ball came down Pretty arose just in time to step in front of the batter's box and cage the sphere.

Parks on Trial For Shooting a Neighbor Man

L. R. Parks went to trial in district court this morning on a charge of shooting with intent to kill. He is charged with firing two loads of shot into and about J. D. Neal, an Indian of the Dolberg community. King & Crawford of Ada and Henry

M. Carr of Pauls Valley represent the defense, while A. C. Chaney is assisting County Attorney Washington in the prosecution.

From testimony submitted at the trial today it seems that Parks and Neal met on the public highway and a difficulty developed. The defendant is charged with unlimbering a two-barreled shot gun and opening fire in Neal's general direction. The first load of shot carried away the brim of the prosecuting witness's hat, spoiling the hat utterly as a piece of headgear. The shot startled the team Neal was driving, causing his horses to break all records in a frantic endeavor to get out of that community and get out very sudden-like.

A second load of leaden pellets was fired at the disappearing driver, with a more accurate aim than the first load. Part of the shot entered
